

Your Gear

Never powerless with solar panel kit

■ Accessory company Projecta has developed a portable 80W solar power panel kit for camping, which is stored in a padded bag and fits in a car boot. The kit includes two hinged polycrystalline solar panels, a charge controller and a 5m power lead with battery clips.

HOW MUCH: $1399

WHERE TO GET IT: 4WD and car accessory stores

JAMES BOND GADGETS
INCLUDES MORE BOND GADGETS

All the best 007 gear

■ Cars have been a key part of the gadgets and gizmos that have stunned James Bond movie fans over the years. Now catch the best of them on this new 90-minute DVD, James Bond Gadgets, which examines the best action from the Aston Martin DB5 to the Autogyro.

HOW MUCH: $19.95

WHERE TO GET IT: DVD shops

Have you got a new product you'd like to see in Your Gear?
Email us at carsguide@dailytelegraph.com.au
or write to GPO Box 4245, Sydney 2000

WEBSITE OF THE WEEK: motogp.com

The 2007 MotoGP season kicks off in Qatar this weekend. Catch up with all the latest news and results as the action unfolds on the official website. There are videos, images and all the live action, plus access to the official MotoGP video podcast.

Brace yourself for a safe ride

■ Reduce the risk of injury when riding your motorcycle with this neck brace. The KTM brace is made from glass fibre-reinforced plastic and carbon and was developed in co-operation with BMW. The brace is compatible with most motorcycle helmets.

HOW MUCH: $1039

WHERE: KTM dealerships or ktm.com.au for store locations

Taking a load off

■ A new way to carry bikes, an esky, fishing and camping equipment or other gear is available with the HitchMate cargo carrier. The platform fits on to the back of your car on the towbar and can carry up to 160kg. There are also a range of accessories available to suit different applications.

HOW MUCH: small $359, medium $399, large $459

WHERE TO GET IT: hitchmate.com.au

